It's now July. Our MC for the evening was Zach Mandel and our topic was comedy. Comedy night is like a box of chocolates – you never know what you are going to get.

Bob Weinowitz started off with a Carnac the Great bit followed by a baseball themed routine and closed with an item called Mathematical Joker. After Zach announced that the comedy portion of the show was about to begin, Zach Introduces Vinny Moccia who demonstrated an item called Horse's Ass Monte. Pretty funny! Next up was Magic-Al Garber who had a few new jokes and then he performed the Commando Rope Trick and that's all you're going to get. Wayne Haarhaus was next and after performing a nice 3 Fly routine, he did a Ricky Dunn routine where, while doing a multiple ring and rope routine, the two assisting spectators, who are holding the ribbon and sitting down continually receive what appears to be jolts of electricity as they kept jumping off their chairs. Zach's Dad, Harry performed a guillotine effect with Kitchen Magician patter that was pretty funny. Dan Miller did a square circle routine. Ed Hass did routine using four flies (different from Wayne's trick above) as Renfield that had everyone howling. Last up was Bill White and Joe Silkie aka the Bogus Brothers. They did a dollar bill in meatball routine that was hilarious. Until next time.
