

Caught a break for February. Just got through with a lot of snow and we got a lot coming up. The theme for the February meeting was Threads, Strings, Magnets and Rubber Bands. Our emcee for the evening was Steve Goldstein who started things off with a sympathetic coin bit where he had four coins re-positioned on a small board and when he lifted the board, the coins below were in the same position. Bill White followed that with Ring Flite, a PK Coin bit and a ring on string effect.

Dave Levitan then demonstrated an effect where a rubber banded deck revealed a selected card all by itself and followed that with his yo-yo trick which is his version of the Eternal String. Steve Goldstein was back with an item called X-Ray Resistant Cards. Terry Oberman followed that with the Andi Gladwin version of Tommy Wonder's watch, money and ring heist where the three items are ostensibly stolen by a robber and placed in an envelope. When the envelope is opened, it is shown to be empty and all the items are back in their original locations.

Chris Ward was next and he demonstrated a lot of different rubber band effects and then closed with Mark Mason's X-Act which is an ACAAN effect. Bob Weinowitz then followed with a triple prediction effect using playing cards. Once again, Steve Goldstein performed a trick called My Piece of Art by Henry Evans. Bill Krupskas then closed things out with an item where he pulls a half dollar out of a little sealed plastic bag. Until next time.
