

The topic for our February meeting was Mentalism and we had plenty of performers, the first of which was everybody's best friend, Bill White. He started off using John Cornelius' Thought Transmitter and he followed that with an item he developed where he divines two three digit numbers. Kevin Rhodehouse followed that with his version of Joshua Jay's wonderful effect, Inferno. Harry Mandel was next and he presented a Max Maven item called Goal-Mine where Harry is left with the only envelope that has the word "mine" written on a slip of paper that was inside the remaining envelope after three spectators chose their envelopes. Bill Krupskas followed with his presentation of Bob Cassidy's Chronologue with the Richard Osterlind embellishments and followed that with Bob King's New Wave Prediction where a thought of card proves to be the only odd-backed card in the deck. Dave Levitan was next and he demonstrated Martin Lewis' Technicolor Prediction. Wayne Haarhaus then performed a nice word prediction effect along with a design duplication effect. Steve Palamore then performed that old Yellow Elephant in Denmark bit. Gary Levenson then predicted the cost of a funeral consisting of a cemetery plot, a headstone, a coffin and a service. Steve Goldstein then performed an oldie, but a goodie – Random Mental. Our final performer was Ziggy and he demonstrated another Martin Lewis item – The Big Switch and ended by correctly predicting a word that was chosen from a random piece of torn up newspaper.
